WORLD WHEAT SITUATION

U. S. Statement

London, May 25.

The present situation regarding wheat exportations was dealt with in a statement issued by the Wheat Advisory Committee, presided by Mr. Bingham, the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

The Committee reviewing the world wheat situation concluded by stating that, while two successive crop failures in North America had temporarily improved the statistical position, the maintenance of the present level of world wheat acreage must, given average yields per acre, result in a re-accumulation in wheat exporting countries of further burdensome surpluses.

The Committee expresses the belief that every effort should therefore be made to seek an agreement upon an effective method of international collaboration designed to solve the wheat crisis. Certain suggested modifications to the Wheat Agreement will accordingly be referred to the twenty-one Signatory Governments.

The Committee unanimously recommended to the Governments concerned the continuation of the frame-work of the Wheat Agreement through the maintenance of the Advisory Committee until July 31, 1935.

The exporting countries, to whom the matter was referred, agreed to the French Government's request that the agreement reached at Budapest last November be modified by reducing France's anticipated emergency export of de-natured wheat from 22,000,000 bushels to 9,000,000 bushels and transferring the amount of such reduction to France's anticipated exports of millable wheat.—Reuter.

WIDER POWERS FOR FLANDIN

Cabinet Members

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 25, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, May 25.

The tension prevalent in political circles owing to the anxiety felt as to the outcome of the first session of the Chamber which takes place next Tuesday, is now somewhat relaxed in view of M. Flandin's decision, for reasons of health, to postpone his momentous declaration requesting the grant of authoritative powers for a few days. During this breathing space it is hoped the Premier will succeed in winning over his hesitating cabinet colleagues with his viewpoint, more especially since the two milliard francs decrease in the Banque de France gold reserves as well as other eloquent figures indicating the grave condition of the Budget have now brought home the seriousness of the position, to the members of all parties.

Nevertheless, it can be by no means regarded as certain that M. Flandin will secure a victory over the Chamber with his demands on which he is staking the existence of his cabinet.

It will be recalled that it was Doumergue's insistence on being granted authoritative powers which brought about his fall, and Flandin is credited with the intention of seeking even far-reaching authority. At that time—although all parties agreed on principle as to the necessity of such measures in view of the earnestness of the situation—it was the Left Wing which refused to support Doumergue's proposals from fear that his successors would misuse the powers

DISAPPEARANCE OF GENERAL

Clue To Soviet Mystery

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 25, 7.30 p.m.)

Paris, May 25.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance in 1929 of the White Russian General and Commander-in-chief of the Czarist military organisation in Paris, Kutleppoff, is expected to be cleared up shortly following the arrest by the Portuguese police, of two Communists, a Russian named Moses Lipzig, and a Frenchman called Marcel le Gall. Kutleppoff, it will be remembered, was kidnapped by unknown men while walking along a street and the two prisoners, after a long examination, have confessed having been implicated in the outrage. While denying any definite knowledge of the General's ultimate fate, the two suspects informed the police that they had heard he had been either killed or died from an overdose of drug administered by the kidnappers to make him unconscious.

Previous investigations, it will be recalled, showed that at the time of the kidnapping, a Soviet steamer cruised along the French coast with extinguished lights and as the Soviet agents were extremely active in France that year, the belief has been expressed from the start that they were involved in the General's kidnapping.

Lipzig and Gall admitted that they were ordered by their Communist colleagues to be in readiness for a "great deed" and that they were paid a reward of 25,000 francs for their participation in the kidnapping. The arrested men, furthermore, declared that after the failure of the first attempt, the General, on the second attempt, was lured into a motor car where he was immediately chloroformed by the occupants, one of whom was a blonde woman. The kidnapped General was then hidden in a villa near

AMERICAN ECONOMIC MISSION

Pahsien, May 25.

The American Economic Mission visiting Szechuen called on the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai Shek this afternoon, and carried on a preliminary discussion of several questions. Tomorrow they will dine with the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang and have an opportunity of thoroughly acquainting themselves with the Generalissimo's policy.

Madame Chiang this morning left Yunnanfu and was given an enthusiastic farewell. She flew north towards the Yangtze, along the course of the upper river, and on to Chungking.

The Economic Mission will fly to Chengtu shortly and make their headquarters there for some time.

to create a dictatorship. Now it is the Right Wing, suspicious of an agreement, said to have been reached between Flandin and Herriot, who see the spectre of a Left Wing Government as Flandin's successor. Practically regarded, therefore, the coming struggles are not so much of the expediency of wider powers being granted to the Government which it is realised must be strengthened in order to deal with the present crisis, as of the question of who shall exercise such powers in future as well as their well-defined limitation.

JUBILEE

No Precedent For May 6

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 9.
The title suggests research into a recondite past; it relates in fact to the event of Monday. For this "Silver" Jubilee is the first to be recorded in the annals of the British Empire, and it is unique because it has no precedent. Queen Victoria had a "Golden" Jubilee in 1867 and a "Diamond" Jubilee in 1897. She might have celebrated a "Silver" Jubilee had not tragedy intervened. The twenty-fifth year of her reign began on June 20, 1861, and ended on June 19, 1886; in the middle of it (December 14, 1861) the Prince Consort died, and overwhelming human grief forbade a Royal Jubilee. William IV. reigned but seven, and George IV. but 10, years.

The next possibility was George III. His twenty-fifth year began on October 25, 1784, and he was still rejoicing in his defeat, with Pitt's assistance, of the Fox-North coalition which he hated. But Pitt's success deprived George III. of that personal control of government which had always been his ambition; and before the twenty-fifth year of his reign was complete he had, on June 1, 1785, to give formal sanction to the disruption of the British Empire by receiving at the Court of St. James the first Minister from the United States of America in the person of John Adams, who afterwards succeeded Washington as second President. The King got through the ceremony with dignity and credit, assuring his former subject that as he "had been the last to consent to the separation" so he "would be the first to meet the friendship of the United States as an independent Power." But that, the principal achievement so far of the reign, was not the occasion for a Jubilee. George III. lived, however, to celebrate a "Golden" Jubilee on October 25, 1809, though the Napoleonic crisis was at its height and the King himself was falling in health. But he was more popular and respected than in 1785, and the celebrations were extensive and sincere. A contemporary account of them was reprinted for Queen Victoria's Jubilee in 1887; on that occasion the Jubilee was celebrated on the day on which the Queen completed the fiftieth year of her reign, but in 1809 on the day on which George III. began the fiftieth year of his.

THE MIDDLE AGES

For earlier reigns of 50 years we have to go back to Edward III. in 1377 and Henry III. in 1266. But Edward III.'s jubilee year was marked by the famous "Good" Parliament, so called for the discontent it expressed with the Royal misgovernment; and Henry III. in 1266, had barely emerged from the Barons' war and the defeat of Simon de Montfort. Nor, apart from these adventitious circumstances, could there ever have been a Royal Jubilee in the Middle Ages. Jubilees were ecclesiastical in origin, and the priestly celebration of every fiftieth year is prescribed in the Book of Leviticus. The institution of the Papal jubilee, celebrated every twenty-fifth year, dates apparently from Boniface VIII.'s bull of February 22, 1300, though he contemplated celebration only once a century; the period was gradually reduced, owing to papal financial necessities, first to 50, then to 33, and finally (in 1470) to 25 years. Royal Jubilees of any sort could hardly have preceded Henry VIII.'s Act of Supremacy in 1534, after the control of papal revenues in England had passed to the Crown.

For "silver" jubilees, celebrating reigns of 25 years, there were obviously more occasions than for "golden" jubilees celebrating 50 years, while Queen Victoria's "Diamond" Jubilee, which had no precedent, may not be repeated until many a century has elapsed. George II. might have celebrated his twenty-fifth year as King which began on June 11, 1711, and ended on June 10, 1736. But the Prince of Wales had died on March 20, 1711, and George II. passed the whole of the summer and autumn of 1732 in his electorate of Hanover without apparently any thought of celebrating the length of his reign in his United Kingdom. Charles II. the next possible candidate for a "silver" jubilee, dated his reign from Charles I.'s execution, but four years of a Republic and five of Oliver Cromwell were distasteful ingredients in a Royal Jubilee, and Charles II. never completed the twenty-fifth year of his real reign. The executioner's axe cut short his father's in his twenty-fourth year, and James I. died in his twenty-third.

TUDOR OCCASIONS

Queen Elizabeth's accession (November 17, 1558) seems to have frequently evoked congratulations due to the change from her sister's reign, but irrespective of any specific period in her own; and her twenty-fifth year (1582-3) passed with no such celebrations as her thirtieth, which culminated in a public holiday, bonfire, and a service at St. Paul's, attended by the Queen and the City Companies in their liveries, to return thanks for the defeat of the Spanish Armada. Her father might have found an occasion to celebrate nearer the twenty-fifth year of his reign. That was completed on April 21, 1534, and in the following Autumn Session Parliament passed the Act of Supremacy, which ended the medieval history of England and founded the modern union of Church and State. But Acts of Parliament, however long they last and deep they go, do not lend themselves to spectacular celebration; and no idea of a silver jubilee occurred to Henry VIII. His father, Henry VII., fell short of the required term by a year, and his grandfather, Edward IV., by two.

But, however modern Royal and—still more—"silver" jubilees may be, there are things to celebrate which no medieval and no ancient time enjoyed; a Monarchy older than any the world has seen save that of the Pharaohs, ruling over teeming populations, more widespread and diverse than those of Imperial Rome; a Parliament—and the Mother of Parliaments—not created, but proceeding from precedent and custom and convention, and going from strength to strength unfettered by written constitutions; and an Empire, unparalleled in its extent and potential resources, which has grown by divesting itself of the swaddling-clothes of Imperialism, preferring the force of argument to the argument of force, and learning the lesson that it is more blessed to give than to receive. In this their Majesties are its true representatives, and it renders thanks to-day for what they have given it.

MANCHUKUO AS A MARKET

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 9.

The Department of Overseas Trade has prepared a survey of Manchukuo as a market, in which it is stated that the purchasing power of the peasants, who form the great bulk of the population, was seriously affected in 1934 by agricultural depression, continued depredations of bandits, and serious floods during the summer. This unfavourable rural situation was reflected in that of the merchants, who in addition suffered from Japanese competition. Japanese traders are establishing themselves in large numbers throughout the country but except those who supply construction materials or cater for the army, they are not prosperous. Only exemption from taxation owing to extra-territorial status and the privileged position of the South Manchuria Railway zone enables many of them to continue in business.

Manchukuo's imports from the United Kingdom advanced by 29 per cent in 1934, owing to larger sales of steel materials and machinery. So far as it goes this is satisfactory, but imports of consumable commodities retained much the same volume as in 1933, and the outlook in such lines as woollen goods and cigarettes is not bright. Whether the whole of the best shipments were designed to meet a demand in the British market.

ROYAL NAVY

Flying At Penang

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 9.

A reply in the House of Commons on Wednesday in relation to the personnel of the Fleet Air Arm is taunting a good deal of discussion in both the Navy and Air Force. Commander Marsden asked the First Lord whether the Admiralty intended to alter the existing arrangements with the Air Council for the purpose of enabling naval petty officers to qualify as pilots in the Fleet Air Arm under the same conditions as sergeant pilots of the Royal Air Force now employed in the F.A.A. Sir Bolton Eyres Monsell stated in reply that the existing arrangements were the result of a Government decision made in 1928 and could not be altered by departmental action.

The effect of this is that a naval petty officer is debarred from flying an aircraft which may form part of the equipment of his ship, whereas his opposite number in the R.A.F. is permitted to qualify for this duty. When the decision of 1928 was taken, only officer pilots were employed in the Fleet Air Arm—70 per cent, drawn from the Navy and 30 per cent, from the R.A.F. Recently, in order to reduce the heavy requirements for officers, N.C.O. pilots were introduced, and in reply to Commander Marsden on April 17 the First Lord stated that there were five sergeant pilots at present attached to the Fleet Air Arm, but the constitution of the Arm did not admit of the employment of petty officers or other naval ratings as pilots.

The distinction appears somewhat invidious, more especially as in foreign navies petty officers are able to take their part in fleet air duties as pilots. The embargo apparently does not extend to the employment of naval ratings as observers, for Air Ministry Orders have recently notified that a new course will begin on July 15 at the School of Naval Co-operation, Lee-on-the-Solent, for naval ratings to qualify as "observers' mates," nine vacancies being offered in a course lasting 22 weeks.

APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments were made by the Admiralty yesterday:—

Lt.-Comdr.—F. Barchard, to Codrington; and G. G. Slade, to Winchester (May 14), and T. J. T. C. Jenks, to Cylops (May 17).
Eng. Lt.-Comdr.—G. F. Taylor, to Montrose (May 18).

Lieut.—B. C. Hutcheon, to President for passage out (May 7), and Lt. to R.A.N. as exchange officer (on arrival in Australia).
Lieuts. (E)—W. M. Gibson, to Neptune (May 6); B. H. Dodds, to Galatea (May 14); A. Chancelor, to Carlisle (May 21); and R. A. Gould, to Grafton (undated).

Payr. Lt.—W. R. Vallance, to Faulkner (on comm. for service).
"Wt. Engrs.—H. W. Davey, to Rowena (May 25); and R. Bowden, to Glorious (undated).

Command Of The Glorious

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 9.

The appointment becomes operative to-morrow of Captain H. C. Rawlings, D.S.O., to command the aircraft-carrier Glorious. For the past year the Glorious has been undergoing large repairs at Devonport Dockyard, and about £435,000 has been spent upon her. Captain G. C. Royle, C.M.G., A.D.C., who formerly commanded her, became Naval Secretary to the First Lord in September last. The Glorious will not be ready for sea in time to take part in the Naval Review. She is expected to leave for the Mediterranean at the end of August.

Captain Rawlings has been associated with naval air work for over 12 years, since he took command of the seaplane-carrier Pegasus in China, early in 1923. He had formerly commanded destroyers for several years. He was lent to the Air Ministry in 1925-26, afterwards commanded the cruiser Devonshire, and in 1932-34 was Director of the Naval Air Division at the Admiralty. His D.S.O. was awarded in March, 1929, for service as senior officer of advanced patrols in the Baltic.

SINO-BRITISH GATHERING

Appeal For More
Co-Operation

Chinese members of the Oxford and Cambridge Society in Shanghai were hosts to British members and their wives at a magnificent Chinese dinner last week, given at the well-known hostelry, the New Asia Hotel. The post-prandial speech was made by Dr. Wu Lien-teh.

After a few words of explanation for acting as mouthpiece for the hosts, said Dr. Wu: "Most of us have no doubt read in the papers about the happy doings of Mr. Quo Tai-chi, Chinese Minister to the Court of St. James. Although an American graduate, Mr. Quo has within less than three years of his appointment won the ear, and even the admiration, of the conservative British people. So much so that he has been kept unusually busy travelling from one city to another and invited to discourse 'on all sorts of subjects, including art, drama, commerce, philosophy, besides politics. His last venture was into the domain of Galsworthy whom he considers the truest exponent of typical British life. And how convincingly he has expressed it!"

"Here in Shanghai we may claim to possess a number of facilities similar to those existing in London. We live in the most populous city of Asia, we own more money than any community in China, half the Customs revenue of the government is collected in this port, and we certainly possess the best dressed and most charming Chinese ladies in the world, some of whom have been kind enough to grace our gathering to-night."

100 YEARS AGO

"Only last Sunday, the North China Daily News reprinted a striking article on Shanghai as it was one hundred years ago, which appeared in a British journal, called the 'Penny Magazine,' of March 4, 1843. The writer quoted a Captain of the Amherst, which visited Shanghai in 1832. Among other interesting matters, this observing skipper said that he counted number of Chinese craft, varying from 100 to 400 tons each, going up and down the river and concluded that as many as 5,000,000 tons of shipping called at the port from Formosa, Canton, the Eastern Archipelago, Siam, India and parts of Africa. This was in 1832. Figures for London in 1838 showed only 4,000,000 tons. The author considered Nanking then to be the largest city in the world. Compare this with the usual statements published in foreign books that Shanghai was an uninhabited mudflat until foreigners came, and that whatever development of progress was made in this city have been due to foreign brains and initiative."

"On this principle, give the devil his due! I am anxious to see more of the 'vaisty spirit' prevail in this vast and ever-expanding cosmopolitan metropolis of ours. Life the British people, the Chinese nation has a long and proud heritage of history and achievements behind it. If it has not yet fallen into line with most western countries in modern industrial expansion and military efficiency, this has been largely due to the difficulties entailed in making an ancient civilization covering one-fourth of the earth's entire population quickly adapt itself to a materialistic and machine world. But in spite of many ups and downs, we can all see movements in the right direction, and the country needs only the sympathetic and scientific mind of present-day Europe and America to stimulate it along its chosen path. In this effort, members of our Oxford and Cambridge Society could individually and collectively contribute much to the better understanding and mutual prosperity of the two great races which we have the honour to represent."

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, Ordinance, 1934. Received, May 26, 4.30 a.m.)

Prague, May 25.

The negotiations which Premier Malypetr has been conducting with various party leaders in order to assure his Government of adequate parliamentary support—the former parliamentary majority having been wiped out by the recent elections—have been successful. The Czech small traders party which holds 17 seats in the Chamber consented to enter the Government which will thus command once more a safe majority since all parties of the old coalition, including the German agrarians and the Social-Democrats have already signified their willingness to continue to support the Government. The "Sudetendeutsche party" which polled more votes than any other party in the recent elections, will thus be left in opposition.

THE SILVER STREAK

When Charles Starrett, hero of RKO-Radio's streamline train picture "The Silver Streak" at the King's Theatre on Wednesday, and Irving Pichel, screen villain, battled to the death in the cabin of the world's fastest train, three great ex-screen fighters were present.

They were William Farnum, a member of "The Silver Streak" cast, Edgar Kennedy also one of the cast, and Walter Long appearing in another RKO-Radio production.

William Farnum, together with Tom Santschi, staged the great battle of "The Spoilers", that sent Farnum to the hospital for two weeks. Kennedy, a professional boxer before he became an actor, opposed Jack Dempsey for fourteen rounds of a screen battle that was sensational. Walter Long was the opponent of Wallace Reid in the never-to-be-forgotten blacksmith shop fray that was a brilliant highlight of "The Birth of a Nation".

That the rough-and-tumble conflict in the cabin of the fast moving "Silver Streak" did stack up favourably with past wars was attested to by a vote of Long, Farnum and Kennedy. All three claimed they have never seen its equal for bloody reality on the screen.

SHADOW OF DOUBT

Arthur Somers Roche's baffling mystery story "Shadow of Doubt" is to come to the screen and is heralded as one of the most novel of modern detective yarns. Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer it is the next change at the Queen's Theatre with Ricardo Cortez and Virginia Bruce heading an imposing cast.

As in "Penthouse" by the same author, "Shadow of Doubt" deals with the interesting people of both Broadway and Park Avenue and those more sinister characters who haunt the streets between.

Instead of the usual suave and fearless sleuth, this story deals with a picturesque elderly woman, possessor of millions, a recluse in America's biggest city who emerges from obscurity to solve a "perfect crime". Pitted against the cunning of the city's best detectives and the power of its police, this remarkable character creates something entirely new to both the film and fiction.

While the actual commission of the crime is not stressed and dramatic and comedy situations predominate, the story deals with the mysterious murder of a Broadway playboy. Under suspicion are the three women in his life—a screen star, a torch singer and a society girl. The sweetheart of the screen star also falls under the accusing finger.

RUMBA

An Excellent Film

"An extremely good follow-up to 'Solero' with some excellent dancing and music" would be, perhaps, the best way to sum-up the picture now showing at the Alhambra Theatre. The title is "Rumba" and my advice is, "go" and see it."

The picture with George Raft, Carole Lombard and the famous Margo in the leading roles is indeed one of the best films of its kind ever to have been shown on the local screen, and the one thing I liked about it was that the dance numbers, which in themselves were splendidly done, were used to further the development of the plot.

With dancers like Raft, Miss Lombard and Margo, all giving of their best, the picture cannot help being first-class and as it would spoil the show for you by telling about it in detail here, I will conclude by recommending it, once again, to all the cinema fans who are in search of a picture with plenty of entertainment.—R.R.

SMART MONEY

Alfred E. Green, who directed Edward G. Robinson in Warner Bros. "Smart Money" which comes to the Alhambra on Wednesday, suddenly discovered during the filming of an important scene, that the casting director, had been remiss in providing the requisite number of blondes for the sequence—since blondes are the weakness of Nick the small town Greek barber who goes to the big town and becomes the king of the gamblers.

The company was all set to work in the elaborate barber shop of a Los Angeles hotel—supposed to be Nick's place—when Green discovered that the casting office had sent him brunettes instead of blondes for manicurists. It was essential that the fingernail teasers be fair headed, for that is part of the story. Green dashed madly up to the lobby of the hotel where he coralled one blonde. He then went out into the street where he caught another just as she was about to enter the hotel. As he didn't have time to wait on the corner for others to pass by, he raced across the street to a public dance hall, where a third was secured. The girls were quite thrilled by the experience, although they had to work until four in the morning.

SUIT AGAINST BARRYMORE

Dolores Costello's Allegations

Los Angeles, May 25.

Dolores Costello, the film star, has petitioned for divorce from her husband, John Barrymore, on the ground of "Cruelty and habitual Intemperance."

Dolores, who is Barrymore's third wife, asks for the custody of the children, Dolores aged five and John aged three years, $1,000 a month for their support, $2,000 a month alimony, all community property, including the family home at Beverly Hills; a yacht reported to cost $250,000, two expensive cars, and securities valued at $125,000.

The complaint of Dolores says that Barrymore's income in 1934 was over $350,000. She alleges that he struck her and used offensive language. He left home last August and neglected for several months to provide for his wife and children.

Dolores' action followed the recent intimation of Barrymore that he would not accept responsibility for the debts and liabilities of anyone else. Dolores was recently instructed by a lawyer to move from John Barrymore's Hollywood home.

The name of Janet Gaynor has always been an attraction and in this picture Miss Gaynor excels herself. She is sweeter than ever as Princess Marie Christine and her acting which left nothing to be desired is as charming as she is exotic.

Many a feminine heart will miss a beat when they see prince charming, Henry Garat, fresh from his French successes.

The story set against a mythical background abounds in romance, beauty, laughter, charm and last but not least haunting music. Lifting tunes that are sung by Gaynor and Garat will undoubtedly prove themselves favourites with local fans. The melodies which are catchy are also infectious and the plot which is very well conceived lends much to the success of the show.

Comedy is supplied by Herbert Mundin who needs no introduction to local fans, and whenever his appearance on the silver screen is known folks flock to see him.

Fox Film did an excellent job in co-starring these two screen idols. Their pairing together in this picture I trust will herald the coming of many more. Garat will surely find his place among the local favourite stars along with Gaynor.

Cucumbers and Curry

"King Edward," so far as the writer knows, has only been commemorated in one dish—Poularde Edouard VII., a confection in which cucumbers and curry harmoniously combine. Queen Alexandra has three or four named after her.

George IV's influence on the art of gastronomy appears in a few dishes a la Regence. Truffles are generally their most striking ingredient.

THE WALKING CROWD

The "Individual" Show

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 9.

People who remember Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee and King Edward's coronation and King George's coronation generally agree that, nothing on the scale of the preparations for the present Jubilee has ever been seen in London, writes a correspondent. It is not only the lavish and, on the whole, rather satisfactory public ornamentation of the streets by the civic authorities and the big decorations on the great commercial buildings and clubs but the special efforts that seem to have been made everywhere on and near the route by every sort of small building and shop and factory and in many cases it is clear that people have given much personal concern and labour to produce an individual show.

The crowds, of course, are much bigger than anything even on Armistice Day. There has, never been a time when people could come so easily and swiftly to the centre from anywhere in the twenty-mile radius. Despite the pressure, it was pleasant enough, even for old people. The pace was slow, and there was a general kindness everywhere. I was in the crowd on Saturday night for three hours, and only saw three cases of people who had obviously been drinking, and two of these were dancing very well.

It was a much better dressed, more sober and pleasant crowd than London had probably ever seen on a great rejoicing, worthy of the lovely spring night. You got the idea that Londoners were conscious that they were participating, not mere sightseers.

A VISITOR'S QUESTION
"Gosh! if this is what you do in the depression," said one, American visitor as he looked at the carnival City to-day, with its millions of pounds of decorations and stands and the streets a flood of motor-cars oozing slowly and endlessly all the day, "what would it have been like if you had been sort of prosperous?"

JUBILEE SUNDAY
London has never known a Sunday like this. By half-past five in the morning the thrush from the suburbs had begun once more and long before midday traffic had again to be diverted from the west end of Oxford Street because the crowds covered the road from side to side. Regent Street was full of people admiring the wonderful window-boxes, and so was Piccadilly, and it was difficult to walk along the pavements in Whitehall or about the Houses of Parliament. There were constant streams of family parties along the Mall and crowds

THE THIRTEENTH GUEST

The number "13" proved to be no hoodoo for Monogram pictures in the production of "The Thirteenth Guest," thrilling Armitage Trail mystery novel, which comes to the Alhambra Theatre on Friday.

In addition to the title, the unlucky number creeps in again in the players in the cast, the picture was made on a 13 day shooting schedule, Albert Ray the director was born on Friday, the 13th, it was the 13th Monogram production since the first of the year and the names of Armitage Trail, the author, and Frances Hyland, the scenarist, both contain 13 letters.

In spite of the preponderance of "13's" however, "The Thirteenth Guest" turned out to be one of the finest mystery melodramas of the year. Ginger Rogers is the star of the production, while the supporting cast includes Lyle Talbot, J. Farrell MacDonald, James Eagles, Edie Phillips, and William Davidson.

THE ORION

The Orient Line's new steamer Orion is to be fitted with Marconi music playing and public address equipment, the order for which has just been placed with the Marconi International Marine Communication Co. Ltd.

This equipment will include a 10-watt amplifier and three loud speakers for the purpose of relaying orchestral or gramophone music to various parts of the ship, including the decks, for dancing or entertainment.

Medium and short wave broadcast receivers are also being fitted to enable broadcast items from land broadcasting stations to be picked up and relayed on board.

Two Marconi microphones will be installed for the purpose of

WEST POINT OF THE AIR

With a shrill scream of spooling airplanes as a blood-stirring background Wallace Beery is being seen on the screen of the Queen's Theatre in the most startling aviation spectacle of the year, "West Point of the Air". Just as "Hell Divers" was the great air epic of the United States Navy, so is the new picture a breath-taking revelation of Uncle Sam's strength in the Air Corps training centres of the Army.

Beery in his role as "Big Mike" gives a dramatic portrayal that surpasses even his performance in "The Champ". His pathetic love for a son whose conceit almost brings disgrace to the Air Corps builds into the foundation for one of the most smashing screen climaxes ever filmed.

Heading the supporting cast as the young romantic lead is Maureen O'Sullivan, whose recent hit in "David Copperfield" won her great acclaim from critics and public alike. She gives a freshness and vitality to her performance that will win many admirers.

The most important role since his smash hit in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" is filled by Robert Young as "Little Mike", Beery's son. He gives a notable performance as a young man whose ego interferes with good sense until parental love helps him to find himself.

Rosalind Russell as the "other woman" in the story gives an intelligent and deft handling to her scenes with Young. She scored recently in "Evelyn Prentice".

picking up orchestral music, vocal items, or any information which the captain or officers may wish to broadcast to the passengers. An order for the complete Marconi wireless telegraph and directional finding equipment on board the a.s. Orion was placed some time ago.

"GAMBLING"

In front of the Palace. Never had one seen more people sunning themselves in the Green Park and St. James's Park, many of them simply resting until they could continue their tours.

In the evening the crowds increased rapidly. Fortunately the traffic was not heavier than usual, for the strangers took little notice of traffic signals or Bellisha crossings and rushed across the streets whenever the fancy took them. The much-talked-of decorations at the west end of Oxford Street brought such crowds of admirers to that part of the street had again to be closed to traffic. The Mall and Constitution Hill were densely crowded and there were always tens of thousands of people outside the Palace. Many of the sightseers did not begin to go home till after midnight though thousands of them must have had to walk home.

WEDDINGS

Hill-Grayson

The marriage of Mr. David Smith Hill and Miss Katherine Naomi Grayson took place at the Registry on Saturday, Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith officiating.

The bride who was given away by Mr. John Robinson wore a dress of mist-blue net and carried a bouquet of pink African daisies. Mrs. Robinson, looking charming in a pink and blue flowered voile frock, was Matron of Honour.

After the reception, which was held at the Hong Kong Electric Recreation Club, the happy left for Repulse Bay where the honeymoon is being spent.

LEUNG-CHEUNG

Four other marriages took place before Mr. Whyte Smith the same morning, all the four parties being Chinese.

Mr. Leung Lim-cheung, a shoemaker in the employ of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., residing at No. 30 Connaught Road, First Floor, son of the late Mr. Leung Man-nin, was married to Miss Cheung Wan-ha, of No. 198 Lockhart Road, Hong Kong. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. Cheung Mak-lam, and the ceremony was witnessed by Mr. Tam Tak-chuen and Mr. Leung Yan-cheung.

KOO-TANG

Miss Tang Yue-ngo, living at No. 273 Cheung Sha Wan, Shum-shui-po, the daughter of the well-known Government contractor, Mr. Tang Him-kwong, became the bride of Mr. Koo Shul-wing, of the Sincere Life Assurance Co., residing at No. 178 Connaught Road, Hong Kong, the son of Mr. Koo Ka-nam, retired merchant. The bride's father was the only witness.

LEE-WONG

Mr. Eric Lee, an electrical engineer, residing at No. 2 Han Ho Wing Road, Kowloon City, the son of Mr. Lee Wan-cho, a merchant, was married to Miss Pauline Wong, of No. 64 Talpo Road, Shum-shui-po, the daughter of Mr. Wong Ho-chuen. Mr. N. K. Ann and Mr. Li Chok-chung were the witnesses.

KWAN-WOO

Mr. Kwan E. Cheung, a merchant living at No. 254 Hennessy Road, Hong Kong, the son of the late Mr. Kwan Chung-long, was married to Miss Woo Shan-man, whose address was given as No. 250 Hennessy Road, Hong Kong, the daughter of Mr. Woo Ting-shan, chief officer on the s.s. Yuen-on. Mr. E. S. Kwan, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. T. E. Roger Woo, uncle of the bride, were witnesses of the ceremony.

THREE CHARGES OF THEFT

On three charges of theft, Wong Ming, aged 32, was sentenced to six months' hard labour by Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistrate's court on Saturday.

The first charge was for stealing a camera, a silver candle stick, and a lady's handbag from No. 152 Prince Edward Road, belonging to Mrs. R. E. McNeale, on May 23; the second was for stealing a cotton quilt and two woollen jerseys from Cheung Heun-shi, a married woman, residing at No. 210 Tung Choi Street, on May 8; while the third was for stealing a gramophone, and two woollen gilets from Chan Tak-yu, a merchant of No. 107 Sai Yeung Choi Street, on March 23.

Detective-Sub-Inspector Foynt of the Shamshui-po Police Station stated that the defendant was arrested in Prince Edward Road with a small purse in his possession, and, on being questioned, took the police to his house where the remainder of the property was found.

Convicted on a charge of stealing a cigarette case, valued at $1.30, Lam Kwan was sentenced to three weeks' hard labour by Mr. Macfadyen at Central Magistracy on Saturday.

It was stated that defendant walked into a shop in Des Voeux Road on Friday pretending to be a buyer. He picked up the cigarette case and walked out of the shop. He was arrested by Sergeant Rogers who was attracted by the shouts of a folk.

THE SILVER JUBILEE

Chinese Helpers Thanked

In connection with the wholehearted Chinese participation in the recent Jubilee celebration, the following exchange of letters took place before the departure of the retiring Governor, Sir William Peel, from the Colony:—
The Honourable

The Chinese Members of the Legislative Council,

Hong Kong Government House

Hong Kong, 16th May, 1935.

Gentlemen,—I desire to convey to you my very special appreciation of the splendid contribution of the Chinese community towards the celebration of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee.

The loyal enthusiasm, of which the magnificent processions were proof, and the well-ordered behaviour of the crowds, have left an indelible impression on my memory, and I shall be glad if you will convey to the Chinese community my warmest thanks for their willing co-operation in the celebrations.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,

Your most obedient servant,

(Sd) W. Peel

Governor, &c.

MR. KOTEWALL'S REPLY

China Building, 5th Floor,
Hong Kong 25th May, 1935.
The Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith,

Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

Sir,—On behalf of the Hon. Mr. S. W. Ts'o, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau and myself, I have the honour to acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your letter of May 17, forwarding a letter from His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, expressing his appreciation of the contribution which the Chinese community was able to make towards the success of the celebration of His Majesty's Silver Jubilee.

This expression of His Excellency's appreciation has given us great satisfaction as we are sure it will give to the Chinese community when this correspondence is published. While the success of the festivities was no doubt in part due to the enthusiastic co-operation of the Chinese community, it is but fair to say that, in our opinion, an equal share of the credit should go to yourself for your able guidance and understanding and co-operation as the Chairman of the Chinese Festivities Committee, and to the Police for the tact, patience and ability with which they discharged their arduous duties during the three days of the celebration.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,
Your obedient servant,

(Sd) R. H. KOTEWALL.

FERRY FARES RAISED

Third Class Only

The Hong Kong Yau-mat Ferry Co., Ltd., announces that, complying with instructions received from the Government, the third class fares on their launches, which ply between the mainland and the island, will be increased by one cent, commencing as from to-day.

SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTE

Danzig And The League

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]
Geneva, May 24.

The dispute which has arisen some time ago between the Danzig authorities and the League of Nations' High Commissioner for Danzig, Sean Lester, concerning the latter's competence, was settled here on Friday when, after the League Council had approved of the report submitted by Lord Privy Seal Eden as rapporteur and re-defining the High Commissioner's powers, the Danzig's chief executive and President of the Senate Greiser delivered a statement, asserting that the Danzig Government fully concurred with the report and recognised the position and activity of the High Commissioner as based on the valid agreements and decisions by the League Council.

Greiser added, however, that the wide circles of the Danzig population who have knowledge of these agreement commitments cannot be denied the right to express their adverse opinion, all the more so since the freedom of opinion is guaranteed by the Danzig Constitution. If the Danzig Government at times consider it its duty to call attention to this popular opinion this is in no way prejudicing the High Commissioner's clearly defined legal position.

After submitting the report which affirms that the mistaken views concerning the duties of the High Commissioner had been due to erroneous statements made in public, Mr. Eden assured the High Commissioner of his full confidence and gratitude for the praiseworthy manner in which he fulfilled his duties.

GATHERING OF ROYALTY

Princess Ingrid's Marriage

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]
Stockholm, May 24.

The marriage of Princess Ingrid, only daughter of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, to the Danish Crown Prince, Frederik which as previously reported, took place on Friday noon in the old Court Church here, was the most brilliant spectacle Sweden has ever seen since many years. Royalty from most European countries were present, the guests embracing the entire kinship of the Danish and Swedish Royal houses with the exception of the King of Norway, the brother of the King of Denmark, and Prince Knud of Denmark, the bridegroom's only brother, who were both kept home by official duties. The bride's elder brother, Sigvard, and her cousin, Lennart, were also absent, they having been deprived of their titles after marrying commoners and are at present living abroad.

Among the most prominent of the host of Royal guests were the King and Queen of Denmark; the King and Queen of the Belgians; the latter being the bride's cousin; the ex-Crown Prince of Germany and the Crown Princess with their four younger children; Ex-Crown Princess Cecilie being the bridegroom's aunt; the former Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Mecklenburg-Schwerin also with their four children—the Grand Duke being the brother of the Queen of Denmark, thereby the bridegroom's uncle; Prince Arthur of Connaught and Lady Patricia Ramsay who were the brother and sister of the bride's late mother; ex-King George, of Greece and many others.

After the wedding the newly married couple drove through the main streets of the capital in an open carriage drawn by six horses, being jubilantly acclaimed by the population. After attending a luncheon in their honour in the great banquet hall of the Royal Castle they left aboard the Royal yacht "Danebrog" for Copenhagen where they are due to arrive on Sunday morning.

THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND

Bishop Hall's Sermon At St. John's Cathedral

The Rt. Rev. Bishop R. O. Hall chose for his sermon at St. John's Cathedral yesterday, "The Position of the Church of England." He said:—

The question has been raised as to what is involved in membership of the Church. This is an important question and shows a real appreciation that membership of the Church is a responsible matter. The word membership is the Latin word for limb. Members of the Church are limbs of the Body of Christ, or as our Lord put it they are branches of the vine. If the Church is right at all membership is this close and intimate thing and not merely a casual connection that we may have by paying a subscription to a club.

A discerning churchman once said of the members of the Church of England that they were like Robinson Crusoe's goats, for you will remember Robinson Crusoe found the goats inside his fence as wild as those outside.

This is a fair criticism. The Church of England has not insisted on as high a standard of conformity for its members as is required by most other denominations. This has given rise to another famous story in which a man said that having tried every other denomination he finally "gave up religion" and joined the Church of England.

THE EFFECTS OF THE REFORMATION

It is remarkable how many centuries it takes to test out any great changes in human thought and organization. In this century we are feeling acutely the effects of the Reformation nearly four hundred years ago.

We are feeling the effects of the Reformation more severely than in previous generations since the Tudor period.

The reason for the question what is involved in membership of the Church is that, in religion as in politics Liberalism of any kind is difficult. Men seem to need some autocracy, something which will save them from the responsibility of making up their own minds and from the confusion that follows when every man is a law unto himself.

The Reformation represented a swing from one authority to another. It was a swing from the authority of the Church which finally headed up in the Bishop of Rome who was called the Father or Pope of the Church to the authority of the written word of the Bible.

A BRIDGE CHURCH

The tension of the present day is created by the fact that this was a wrong change. The change was, as a matter of fact, never completely made by the Church of England. The Church of England has been called in recent European conferences on Reunion a "Bridge Church" which has, as it were, a foot in both camps.

This position is not logical, but it may be none the worse for that. It reminds me of the story of a Roman Catholic, who told his friend that he had lost his faith. When his friend replied "I suppose then you are going to join the Church of England," the retort came back at once, "I said I had lost my faith not my reason." There is no question our elder sister, the great Church of Rome, is entirely logical in what she requires of her members and also that she is remarkably efficient. The ordinary person has to decide not between a Church that is right but between different attempts to work out in an effective organization the life which is given to men in Jesus Christ.

I do not want to claim infallibility for the Church of England. I do not want to say any other ways are wrong, but I do want to say very emphatically that those who reject the authority of the Church of Rome must accept either the authority of the written word of the Scriptures or the unstable position of the Church of England which lies between the two.

I am neither ashamed or afraid of this instability because I believe that it represents just that middle way between freedom and authority which allows for the fullest development of any organization. It is a position, that is not possible in business or in Government or in military matters. It is possible in the sphere of religion because ultimately the basis is a relationship between God and the individual. The Church is part of God's great activity in time which is not something we make. Like the page following good King Wenceslas, we put our faltering footsteps in His. The basis of our position is that we do not believe God wishes men to be servants to an authority which is implacable but friends that give to Him a glad obedience of sons.

SAINTS AND SINNERS

There are two other extreme types of Church organization in which again the Church of England takes a middle position. There is the Sect type of Church and the Pastoral. The Sect type tends to be a small group of people requiring of close fellowship and a very high standard of conduct. This type of Church organization has some remarkable achievements to its credit. The other type is concerned rather with uniformity of conduct. As a Church it may make Saints, but it has also in its membership many sinners. It eschews Puritanism and has great capacity for forgiveness. It is concerned more with gathering people into the ark than with the influence of Christ they may be made Saints. Here again the Church of England has always taken the middle position. I don't pretend that we have ever thought it out. The Church of England as such has no central mind at any given time. It moves forward rather by the inspiration of leadership first of one and then of another individual or group who are seized with power by the Spirit of God, so it keeps within the same fellowship those whose view is entirely that of the Sect type of Church and those whose view is that of the Pastoral type.

RAPID GROWTH

Moreover the Church of England has grown so rapidly in the last one hundred and fifty years that it is difficult to know what further development in organization may be necessary, in order to hold together at all. One hundred and fifty years ago there were no Bishops outside the British Isles. Now there are duly constituted Provinces with Synods in three Houses, Bishops, Clergy and Laymen in most countries of the world. The name Church of England can no longer describe this great international Church, and yet there is about it still in every country that Anglican temper, that illogical common sense which Englishmen, being essentially stupid, accept from God without question. "I thank Thee, O Father," said our Lord, "that Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them unto babes." The success of the English people throughout the world is perhaps in a measure due to that thickness of skull which the early Europeans of the Mediterranean attributed to our foggy climate.

So the great Anglican Communion which sends, every ten years, to Lambeth for consultative purposes, Bishops from all over the world owes its success in a very great measure to the fact that the illogical English mind trusts persons more than logic and the whole personality of man more than his mind. Lambeth issues Resolutions every ten years which are a guide to the understanding of our faith and to the application of it in our everyday life. Lambeth Conference Resolutions have no compulsion but loyalty and brotherhood and the power of the Holy Spirit of God. They keep us at the same time in step with one another and also going forward.

THE FUNDAMENTAL FACTS

Those who say it is difficult to know what the mind of the Church is are therefore justified in saying so, but they are not therefore, I think, justified in staying outside the Church. There are certain fundamental facts. God is. In Jesus Christ God became man. Jesus died upon the Cross and rose from the dead. He still lives. He is still the Living Word of God to men. God continually making himself knowable and available for man's helping and redeeming the third great fundamental fact is the experience of the Holy Spirit of God.

The Church has a basket in which she carries these three great facts about God. It is called the doctrine of the Trinity. The doctrine of the Trinity does not attempt to explain God or to reduce the nature of the Divine Personality of the Creator into philosophical terms framed by the mind of man, but the faith of the Church is Trinitarian. It says however much more God may be, He is "not less" than Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

TRAIN FATALITY

A fatal tragedy occurred on the Canton-Kowloon Railway line shortly after 4.30 p.m. on Saturday when a Chinese male was run over by the Canton express, the Flying Dragon, which was on her way to Kowloon. It was found that the head of the man was severed from his body.

It appeared that when the train was rounding a bend the man suddenly walked across the track and was knocked down. The wheels of the train passed over his neck and thus severing the head.

Some time ago in convocation (the Parliaments of the Provinces of York and Canterbury in England) it was suggested that the Creed of the Church should begin not "I believe," but "We believe." This proposal was only lost by a narrow margin of votes. That debate shows you what is required of the individual member. He is required to be loyal to the faith of the Church even if he does not fully understand it or at all points personally agree with it.

AFFECTION AND UNDERSTANDING

When I went to my first parish I found as Vicar's Warden an old man whom I had known in childhood. He said to me "I shan't often agree with you but I shall always back you." We do not in the Church of England enforce the discipline of faith upon our members, we ask them to accept and understand the faith of the Church. We do not let our own hands finally to any verbal interpretation of the great facts of God, but we do insist that the heart of religion is obedience to God. Our

THE NEW EMBASSIES

Chinese Press Reception

(By Our Own Correspondent).

Shanghai, May 20, 1935.

The principal news item of the week that has put all others, big and small, definitely in the shade during the past few days has been the simultaneous elevation of the Japanese, American and British legations in China to Embassy status, followed closely by announcements of similar action taken by France and Germany.

Hailing these important announcements as inaugurating a new era in China's international relations, deep gratification was expressed in Chinese editorials over this recognition of the country's high standing among the family of nations. Such unified action on the part of three foreign powers, the "China Times" pointed out, will no doubt affect the future trend of diplomacy in China. Deep gratification was expressed in the belief that the move will bring about a turn for the better in Sino-Japanese relations. If the decision on the part of Japan to elevate its diplomatic representation in China was motivated by a sincere desire to substitute for her policy of aggression a spirit of equality and reciprocity, Commending on the action in the matter by the United States and Great Britain, the "China Times" opined that their present move cannot but mark a further step towards placing their relations with China on a basis of equality and reciprocity which alone, it is expected, is to guide future negotiations for the settlement of all Sino-British and Sino-American problems.

The three-power move to raise their diplomatic representation to the rank of embassies, the editorial in the "Chen Pao" said, could be interpreted as nothing but a sign of cordiality towards China. The initiative taken by the three leading foreign powers will no doubt raise the prestige of China as a member of the Family of Nations and will thus elevate China's international position.

Continuing, the "Chen Pao," expressed the hope that the foreign powers concerned, guided by the spirit of recognizing China as an equal member of the Family of Nations, will supplement the elevation of their diplomatic representation in this country with efforts to do away with old treaties which had been concluded with China and which are now incompatible with the spirit of equality and reciprocity.

In conclusion, the "Chen Pao" pointed out that China will always pursue the policy of friendship and impartiality in her relations with all foreign powers.

JAPANESE PRESS COMMENTS
Whether any change is foreshadowed in Japan's policy "vis-à-vis" China as the result of the elevation of her Legation to an Embassy, it is not possible to say. However, the Japanese Press gives a clue, though not invariably a reliable one—and it must also be added, particularly where interpretation of Chinese sentiments is attempted.

The "Tokyo Asahi Shimbun" characterises Japan's "step forward" in the improvement of diplomatic relations between Japan and China. The newspaper also highly commended the Foreign Office for discarding the old policy of following in the footsteps of other Powers, and instead showing initiative in international relations. "Although it is yet premature to believe that a fundamental change has taken place in China's attitude towards Japan, it cannot be denied that there is a decrease in the anti-Japanese sentiment," the "Asahi" said. "It is also true that the Chinese, who, purely for sentimental reasons, have been supporting anti-Japanese activities, have arrived at the realization that a rapprochement with Japan is in their own interests, and that their sentiments must give way in the interests of policy. We know that China is seeking to effect rapprochement with this country, and movement is still far from what we would desire, there is no reason why we should not respond to China's changed attitude."

The "Nichi Nichi" declared that this action is part of the policy of Minister Koki Hirota to render positive assistance to China.

The journal added that Mr. Hirota will not be satisfied with a mere nominal settlement of the outstanding questions between the two nations, but will seek a material strengthening of his policy towards China. It is therefore expected that Mr. Ariyoshi, the first Japanese ambassador to China, will inaugurate direct formal negotiations, real and earnest, which will respond correspondingly to China's call for the improvement of her international position, and her political, economic, military and cultural amity with Japan.

THE MAIN POINTS

The main points of Mr. Hirota's instructions to Mr. Ariyoshi, according to the "Nichi Nichi" are expected to be:

1. That China shall place absolute confidence in the Japanese government, while the National Government of China shall take full responsibility for the complete suppression of anti-Japanese activities throughout China.
2. Although the question of monetary loans is a difficult one, Japan is prepared to establish a limited credit for supplying the commodities needed by China.
3. On the Military side Japan is ready to give China every aid, should she be menaced by a third Power, on the basis of the Japan "Manchukuo" defense protocol. If necessary, Japan is not averse to exchanging joint defense measures with China.
4. Japan demands from China that, as the relations between the two countries become adjusted, China shall show more respect for Japan's "rights" under existing treaties.

A Foreign Office spokesman, questioned concerning the exchange of ambassadors between China and Japan, said that the elevation of the Legations to the ranks of Embassies would cause no change in Japan's policy and had nothing to do with the recognition of "Manchukuo" by China. This would be welcomed, he added, if it were spontaneous, but Japan would not use persuasion in this connection.

ALARMING GROWTH

Of Manchurian Drug Traffic

The Central News Agency, under date of May 15, reports the publication of a "Manchukuo" bulletin No. 67, by the Foreign Office of the puppet State at Changchun, the contents of which have caused considerable alarm and consternation to the League of Nations Opium Commission. The figures reveal that of the 900,000 opium smokers in Manchuria, only 32,500 hold smoking permits. This means that of the total of 1,642 tons of opium, estimated consumed annually by the total number of smokers, only 151 tons, consumed by the less than 10% licensed ones, are controlled by the authorities, while the rest 1,491 tons escape control.

The bulletin further reveals that of every 1,000 people of the entire population in Manchuria, seven are addicts of manufactured drugs. The total number of these addicts is now 210,000 whose annual consumption of drugs is estimated at 30 tons. The bulletin, it is understood, has had the closest attention of the League of Nations, although it is not known whether it will form the subject of official discussions there.

THE KEEPERS OF THE GATE

Every night at Ypres, carried gustily on the winter wind or borne far and clear through the summer dusk, the people of the resurrected city hear four bugles calling from the Menin Gate. This is carried on with monotonous regularity, in stormy weather or when it is fine, and the calls speak to the citizens of Ypres, at their fires or walking the new-old streets in warm twilight, in a foreign tongue for the message the buglers sound is the "Last Post" of the British Army. During these last eight years, that punctual music which stills the traffic at the Gate and hails old soldiers on the ramparts, has grown into the life and routine of the city, and yet the voices are not calling to the living. They are the bugle calls which "blow out over the rich dead," raising each night a requiem for the 60,000 British soldiers who sleep—half of them in resting places unknown—in the Salient beyond the city. Mustering evening after evening in the shadow of the mighty Gate, which the British Lion, carved above, still seems to guard, that ceremony is one of the War's most moving sequels of commemoration—an act of symbolism fired with poetry and meaning. The fact that it is lacking in all show makes that appointment with the dead appear all the more sincere: there stand four Belgian workmen, in working clothes, setting silver trumpets to their lips as the light fades on the battle field, and there are a few rights when a little group of spectators await quietly by, thinking of yesterday's chapter of human valour, and their minds not empty, but sure of gratitude to our nation.

Such an act, simple, natural and sincere, deserves to be passed on without break, from day to day, from evening to evening, until it becomes dear tradition, a custom handed down from a historic antique age. And we can be sure now that the ceremony at the Salient will have no end for last. Easterlike members of the Surrey British Legion gave a cheque to the Burgomaster of Ypres that will endow the nightly call for ever. Hitherto the expenses of the four buglers have been borne by the people of the City and they would have willingly continued to provide the sum required but the Legion which some years ago presented the silver bugles used, has made this tribute to dead comrades its own. The idea of the Surrey Branch of the British Legion is worthily conceived and the thanks of ex-Service men, the Empire over, must go to them.

AMATEUR GOLF FINAL

Title Retained By Lawson Little

London, May 25.
The final of the British Amateur Golf tournament at St. Ann's ended in a victory for the holder, W. Lawson Little, 1-0 over the 38-year-old Dr. Tweddell, who almost collapsed owing to the strain on the last green and had to be assisted to the clubhouse. Lawson Little had to fight very hard and use all his skill before beating his opponent.

This feat of winning two years in succession has only been achieved before by Harold Hilton in 1900-1 and by Horace Hutchinson in 1886-7.

Little was 3-0 at the end of the morning round. He went round in 73 and Tweddell in 78, bogey 38—39—75. Little won the first, second, fourth and eighth and the others were halved. Tweddell won the ninth where Little was 3-0, the scores being Little 37-40. The tenth was halved. Little won the eleventh and the twelfth was halved. Tweddell took the thirteenth and the fourteenth was halved.

An enormous drive of 350 yards was made by Little for the fifteenth which won him the sixteenth, and the seventeenth was halved, but Tweddell won the eighteenth.

A CLOSE FIGHT

In the afternoon Tweddell won the first two holes and the third and fourth were halved. Little won fifth and sixth, Tweddell won the seventh, Little the eighth, and Tweddell the ninth, where Little was 2-0, the scores being Little 41 and Tweddell 39. The tenth was halved. Tweddell won the eleventh and twelfth with an eagle and three birds, two respectively to square the match. The thirteenth was halved. Little won the next two holes and the sixteenth was halved. Little was down two and Tweddell took the seventh where Little missed a short putt. The eighteenth was halved with perfect form. The scores were Little 37; Tweddell 38.—Reuter.

EMPIRE CONTRIBUTIONS

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, May 9.
The Sultan of Johore's Jubilee gift of £500,000 for the Singapore Base is a reminder that Malaya contributes more to Imperial defence per head of population than any other part of the Empire.

The contributions include the gift of the battleship Malaya, and of a sum of £2,000,000 for the Base by the Federated Malay States. The Government of the Straits Settlements gives 20 per cent. of its net revenue annually to Imperial defence. The 20 per cent. has never been less than £500,000.

It is a fine record for a region whose total European population is only 16,000.

Sultan Ibrahim this year celebrates the thirtieth anniversary of his accession to the throne of Johore.

His State produces rubber and iron ore. The ore is mined by Japanese, whose concession is opposite the Singapore Base.

There are many tigers and crocodiles in the jungle and rivers of Johore.

Occasionally a tiger swims over to Singapore.

RETORET COURTEOUS

At sixty-two Sultan Ibrahim is a man of the world and a shrewd and liberal ruler. The finances of his State are well administered.

On a recent world tour he was received by President Roosevelt at the White House. Mr. Roosevelt was ignorant of Johore's whereabouts and asked for information. "Mr. President," said the Sultan, "I am the ruler of a small and far-off State."

"But my Treasury is solvent and I have no unemployed."

OTHER ROYAL JUBILEES

King George will be the fifth of the nine ruling monarchs in Europe to celebrate his Silver Jubilee.

The first was the Queen of the Netherlands. She came to the throne as a child of ten in 1800.

Next came the King of Italy. In July of this year he will celebrate the 35th anniversary of his reign. In November the King of

Complaint To League

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Geneva, May 24.
Representatives of all Christian Churches have addressed a letter to the members of the League Council calling their attention to the systematic persecution of Christian religion in Soviet Russia. The letter points out, conforms to the deliberate intention of the Soviet Government and based on the statements by Stalin as well as the decisions by the Communist party concerning the "necessity of an inexorable war against religion."

The letter stresses that the League cannot remain indifferent to this matter and should take steps to protect the sacred interests of faith. "The Churches cannot admit that the League of Nations is remaining inactive in face of the persecution of the faithful. It being the League's sacred duty to pledge its members to permit tenets of the Christian religion to be freely taught and Christian worship freely exercised in their respective territories."

EMPIRE DAY CONCERT AT ALBERT HALL

Their Majesties Attend

London, May 25.

Their Majesties the King and Queen attended the Empire Day command concert at Albert Hall last night when a choir of 800 voices representative of Choral Societies in all parts of the British Isles and a specially augmented orchestra contributed to the programme. At the King's request, there was change in programme towards its end and Parry's "Jerusalem" was sung by the whole of the vast audience. The King and Queen joined in singing the hymn.—British Wireless.

If Gossip We Must

(BY "PRUDENCE")

I am afraid I was one of the absentees and did not attend the Empire Day Ball at the Peninsula Hotel—the spirit was perfectly willing but the eyelids were hopelessly weak, for I did so much concentrated revelling during the Jubilee Week that I am still trying to make up that lost sleep! However, I heard from everyone who did attend that it was a very good show.

His Excellency the Officer Administering the Government, Sir Thomas Southern was unavoidably prevented from attending; he was slightly indisposed but Lady Southern, accompanied by Captain Walter, A.D.C. was present and so were His Excellency the General Officer Commanding, Major-General O. C. Borrett, His Honour Mr. Justice and Mrs. A. D. A. MacGregor, Commodore and Mrs. Sedgwick and Sir Henry and Lady Pollock, in addition to many prominent residents.

THE HOT WEATHER

Now that the hot weather has started let us all be lazy. Who cares whether Miss Pamith looks painful in petunia or Miss Brown beautiful in blue? Certainly not Miss Pamith or Miss Brown. All they need is a matched, a swimming-suit and a pair of slacks to change into between whiles.

And furthermore, the Summer Exodus is just about to begin. All the Lovelies and Still-More-Lovelies are preparing for a trip up North, or to Japan or Wel-hal-wei, there to lounge on the beach by day and flirt with the fleet by night, and very nice too. But one has to be fleet to flirt with them at this time of the year, for they are always on the move, engaged in manoeuvres or chasing pirates and rescuing the kidnapped from their clutches.

LOTS TO OFFER

For we who remain, Hong Kong has lots to offer, with its wonderful bathing and beautiful bays where one can paddle one's own canoe as safely as one can on river. Canoes are all the rage this summer and have cut out surf boards in popular favour.

I often see Dr. and Mrs. Valentine paddling their "Canadian" across Repulse Bay. Mr. van Wylick has a wonderful model canoe built to his own design, a blunt-nosed type which practically cannot upset, and is particularly safe for children.

Dr. Croot was out with a friend in another type which sports a small sail. They went all over the bay in record time but canoes of this sort are not for those who have a "date" to keep—the wind can catch the sail and carry them out to sea at tremendous speed but it may be the dickens of a job to tack or row back again.

SINGAPORE DUG-OUTS

Personally I favour the Singapore Dug-Outs which are so light and buoyant they skim the water, and when they do upset they absolutely refuse to sink. Even when full up with water they remain floating just on the surface where they can be pushed ashore or ridden horse-wise.

There is lots to do in the hot weather so if those responsible for this tourist-propaganda business want some hints, I will be glad to supply them with all the latest "dope" on this important subject.

ITALY'S DISPUTE WITH ABYSSINIA

Successful Outcome Of League Efforts

London, May 25.

British diplomatic circles are gratified at the ending of the deadlock in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute and in securing a safeguard without recourse to arms. It is particularly considered a great achievement which may go a long way in helping solution of the whole problem and is regarded as a personal success for Mr. Anthony Eden's tireless efforts in the cause of peace.

A Rome message says that the Italian press expressed considerable satisfaction at the Geneva decision which is considered to be a victory for Italian diplomacy. The important thing, said a Foreign Office spokesman, was that the two countries are left to settle the matter between themselves. Italy was willing to come to a settlement and hopes that Abyssinia also was moved by the same sentiments. — Reuter.

London, May 25.

A settlement of the dispute between Italy and Abyssinia was reached late last night and a specially summoned meeting of the League Council was held in the early hours of this morning when the resolution, in which the settlement is recorded, was approved. This result was reached after many anxious hours of negotiation. The principal part in these negotiations was played by the British delegate, Mr. Anthony Eden and the French Foreign Minister, Monsieur Laval, who throughout the week have devoted all their energies to the settlement of the "critical situation." The deadlock now ended, began last November with the clash between Italian and Abyssinian troops at Walwal and since then a large Italian army has been concentrated at Eritrea and Italian Somaliland.

The three important points contained in the resolution ultimately accepted by the Italian delegate who was, throughout the night, in frequent telephonic communication with Signor Mussolini, were firstly, the reaffirmation of Article Five of the Italian Abyssinian Treaty of 1928; secondly, the fixing of a time limit for the conciliation procedure, and, thirdly, the provision for the appointment, by council, of an additional arbitrator if the time expires without any agreement and for the council to take up the question again about one month later. If by that time a result is not reached.

ARBITRATION PLAN

Article Five of the 1928 treaty provides that in cases of dispute which cannot be settled by ordinary diplomatic methods, both the Italian and Abyssinian Governments agree to submit to the procedure of arbitration and conciliation without having recourse to the force of arms. The main arbitration proceedings between two representatives of each of the disputants will cover the Walwal affair and all subsequent incidents, but the question of delimitation of the frontier between Italian

Somaliland and Ethiopia will be dealt with separately. July 25th is time limit agreed upon for arbitration and August 25th for a further Council Meeting in the event of the failure of this procedure.

Mr. Anthony Eden, in accepting the resolution on behalf of the British Government at this morning's council meeting, paid a tribute to the spirit of conciliation which had made the result possible. He expressed satisfaction that the two parties had agreed to proceed to the "demarcation of the frontier as soon as the present difficulties had been liquidated, and noted with satisfaction that under the terms of the resolution, the council would remain in close contact with the situation and meet again if necessary. — British Wireless.

COMPLETE AGREEMENT

Geneva, May 24. Complete agreement has now been reached on every point of the Italo-Abyssinian conciliation resolution before the League Council.

Italy has accepted the compromise based on the slightly modified British proposals, put forward by Mr. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, and Britain's delegate to the Council.

Italy has accepted as a basis of conciliation Article V of the Italo-Abyssinian Treaty of 1928 which emphasises that there will be no recourse to war between the nations in any dispute concerning their frontiers.

A time limit is also fixed for conciliation and provision is made for the summoning of a further meeting of the League Council if conciliation fails within a given time. The Council will meet in August to attempt to settle the problem if Italy and Abyssinia fail to agree before that time.

The meeting of the Council, which commenced at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon, only succeeded in drafting the resolution at a few minutes after midnight. — Reuter.

LEAGUE SEAT FOR CHINA

Complex Issues Involved

Geneva, May 25. A secret meeting of the League Council was held at the close of the session to discuss the application from the Chinese Government submitted by Mr. Quo Tai Chi asking for a seat on the Council for China on the ground, it is understood, that there is at present no Asiatic representative on the Council.

After a short discussion which revealed very complex issues to be involved, it was decided to ask the Secretary General to prepare a report for the September Assembly. — Reuter.

Marseilles Affair Settled

Geneva, May 25. The League Council held the final meeting of the present session on Saturday afternoon when the remaining points on the agenda were disposed of. The complaints by the Danzig opposition parties were referred to the Committee of three jurists for closer examination.

The long standing dispute between Hungary and Yugoslavia arising from the Marseilles assassinations was definitely settled. Lord Privy Seal Eden, as rapporteur, pointed out that the Hungarian Government had instituted proceedings against a number of Hungarian functionaries guilty of negligence in controlling the activities of Yugoslav terrorists, and recommended that the Council should declare the matter closed. The Council accepted the suggestion.

DEFENCE OF FRONTIERS

Mussolini's Speech In The Chamber

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press").
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 26, 4.30 a.m.)

Rome, May 25. That Austria is the only problem dividing Italy and Germany was stressed by Mussolini in the course of his important declaration on Italy's foreign policy made in the Chamber on Saturday afternoon when the estimates of the Foreign Office came up for discussion.

After observing that the Franco-Italian relations have been vastly improved by the Rome conversations in January last, Il Duce turned his attention to the projected Danubian conference decided upon at Stresa, emphasising that this conference would not take place until it has been thoroughly prepared.

The Franco-British conversations in London, which have been the direct result of the Rome conversations, had awakened an optimistic hope of normal development in the European situation. This optimism, said Mussolini, has been destroyed by the one-sided German repudiation of the arms clauses of the Versailles Treaty and everyone to-day admitted that Germany's action created an accomplished fact which cannot be suppressed.

In this connection Mussolini recalled the favourable attitude adopted by Italy towards partial rearmament by Germany in which the Italian Government had raised no objection.

HITLER'S POINTS

Referring to the thirteen points in Hitler's Reichstag speech, Mussolini said that they could be neither accepted nor rejected en bloc, and the task would be incumbent on diplomacy by carefully examining their importance.

After emphasising that the question of Austria's independence is an international one, Mussolini continued, amid tremendous outbursts of cheers, that Italy intends to defend not only the Brenner frontier but also the frontiers of her colonies since every frontier is sacred.

ABYSSINIA

The Italo-Abyssinian agreement, according to Il Duce, has remained a dead letter with the exception of Article V relating to the settlement of disputes by procedure of conciliation and arbitration to which Abyssinia is now clinging. The speaker went on to assert that it is an established fact that Abyssinia began already in 1929 to have her army trained by European officers, while ever since the following year she had imported immense quantities of war material from Europe.

Mussolini concluded by saying that Italy is firmly resolved to shrink from no responsibilities, however onerous, when the security of her territory and the lives of her soldiers are at stake. — Transocean Kuo Min.

IL DUCE'S WARNING

Rome, May 24. "No-body, in Italy or abroad, must mistakenly think we shall not be circumspect before taking our decision, but once that is taken we will march direct." This hint to the League Council's parties upon the Italo-Abyssinian crisis was thrown out by Signor Benito Mussolini when addressing exservicemen on the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of Italy's entry into the Great War. His Majesty King Victor Emmanuel and the Crown Prince were present.

"Our gospel is: 'Better five days as a lion than thirty days as a sheep,'" declared Il Duce. — Reuter.

LEAGUE COMMITTEE ON SANCTIONS

Proposals Considered Impracticable

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press").
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, May 26, 4.30 a.m.)

Geneva, May 25.

The French proposals for sanctions against treaty breakers are not finding much favour among the members of the Committee of thirteen who are entrusted with task of defining the economic and financial measures to be taken in the event of unilateral repudiation of treaty obligations and who met on Saturday to discuss the French memorandum published on Friday. The debate revealed that only a few States including Soviet Russia are supporting the French proposals.

The Spanish delegate, Madariaga stressed that the system of sanctions was not practicable as long as the League of Nations is not universal. The British delegate likewise voiced some objections and suggested that the number of questions dealt with in the memorandum should be referred to a special committee of judicial experts. After some further skirmishing, the Committee adjourned without taking any decisions. — Transocean Kuo Min.

FRENCH PROPOSALS

Geneva, May 25. The French memorandum concerning the sanctions to be taken against a State guilty of unilateral breach of treaty begins by pointing out that conformably to the resolution of April 17 European peace may be endangered either by unilateral denunciation of political or highly important treaty stipulations or by such denunciation being accompanied by measures such as increased armaments applying to war materials—calculated to inspire scepticism as to the peaceful intentions of the violator. In either case this would imply menace to war, it being the task of the Committee of thirteen to submit to the League Council proposals which would permit effectively to counter-act the menace. It would generally not be necessary to take measures calculated to destroy the entire economic life of the country in question since it would be sufficient to define the limited number of finished goods and war materials which the guilty State would have to procure from outside its territory and whose curtailment would check its preparations.

In case the countries do not possess armaments of their own it would suffice to proclaim an embargo to control the shipments of arms and war materials, while in case the countries are in possession of arms industry it would be necessary to dry up the sources of their supplies. In any case the financial problem, for instance, of blocking all credits would have to be considered by this system and could only be made full effective if all States immediately concerned would co-operate with the framework often proposed in regional pacts.

PROTOCOL SUGGESTED

The memorandum comes to the conclusion that a protocol be drawn up along the lines indicated which it would be open to all European States to sign. In this protocol all signatories should in the event of treaty violation, be established by the League Council to undertake and carry out the League's recommendations and, moreover, come to an understanding concerning the measures to be taken in order to prevent the export of war materials, raw materials and other products to the territory of the guilty State, the carrying out of these obligations to be ensured by the conclusion of requisite general or regional pacts. The memorandum's judicial arguments culminate in the assertion that in the case of the League Council's decision concerning treaty violation, the vote of the accused State should under no circumstances be taken into account when considering the question of unanimity. — Transocean Kuo Min.

EARLIER MEETING

Geneva, May 24. The committee of thirteen appointed by the League Council, to study the problem of the economic and financial sanctions against a State guilty of unilateral denunciation of treaties met for the first time on Friday afternoon and elected the Portuguese delegate, Da Matta as chairman. In a short speech, the chairman, Da Matta pointed out that the French Government had issued a memorandum containing suggestions regarding the committee's work and the speaker proposed the committee should adjourn till Saturday in order to study the memorandum.

The Committee agreed on the proposal and adjourned accordingly. — Transocean Kuo Min.

"NO QUARTER"

France To Strangle Short Sellers

Paris, May 25.

The Bank of France has raised its discount rate from 3 per cent. to 4 per cent. in furtherance of the campaign to save the French franc. This is the second time that the rate was raised within three days.

The immediate object in view is to stop the outflow of Gold and the withdrawal of funds from Paris, which is assuming serious dimensions.

This action by the Bank of France is taken so as to strangle outright on Monday morning those operators who had been selling francs short, said reliable financial observers here. "No quarter will be given them. Brussels is the centre particularly aimed at."

To-day's step was also necessitated by the situation in the money market during the morning. The Banque de France has

PROCESSIONAL DRIVE THROUGH LONDON

London, May 25.

Exceptionally heavy rain fell this morning and throughout the forenoon weather continued so threatening that it was feared it might be necessary to postpone arrangements for the third of the four Silver Jubilee processionals drives through suburban London this afternoon. Later, however, the skies cleared and the programme was carried out in full to the intense satisfaction of hundreds of thousands of people who lined the route through the East End of London.

The King and Queen drove in a semi-state landau attended by Captain's Escort of Life Guards. At Limehouse Town Hall Their Majesties alighted and the Mayors of East London Boroughs were presented by the Home Secretary. The drive took place to accompaniment of a continuous roar of cheering. — British Wireless.

AGREEMENT WITH GERMANY?

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

London, May 24.

That Hitler's speech opened the way for the conclusion of a Western air as well for an agreement on the limitation of armaments, is the prevailing opinion in political circles here. It is understood that the British Government will, immediately after the impending reconstruction of the cabinet, take the initiative for the opening of negotiations which will probably lead to a conference at some neutral city presumably The Hague. — Transocean Kuo Min.

YESTERDAY'S GAME

Only one lawn bowls game was played yesterday and that was in the Rinks Tournament when on the Recreio green A. Hyde-Lay's quartette comprising J. W. M. Brown, E. C. Fincher and J. Goodwin defeated the Craigengower combination—F. X. Delgado, N. P. Karanjia, W. J. Howard and F. S. Fernando (skip)—by 12 shots, the score being 26-14.

A PLEASANT FUNCTION

A very pleasant function took place at the Kowloon Dock Recreation Club on Saturday evening (at the conclusion of the K.D. R.C. v. K.C.C. match) when the president of the Club, Mr. Coleman, presented Mr. H. Hampton with a K.D.R.C. badge (in brooch form).

In a short speech Mr. Coleman said they were all very sorry that Mr. Hampton was leaving the Colony. He thanked him for all he had done for the game when he was secretary of the Association and wished him all the best of luck in the Old Country. Mr. Hampton who is leaving by the R.M.S. Empress of Asia on Saturday suitably replied.

BORSLEIGH AGAIN BAD

London, May 25. The latest news is that Borsleigh, Lord Derby's entrant for the Derby on June 5 at Epsom, is again bad.

After cantering this morning, he was given trotting exercise, and appeared, as he trotted, as if the trouble near the hind legs had returned. As a result, it was decided not to gallop him. "I will not give up all hope, but his position is now much more serious," said Trainer Leader-Neuter.

PERRY AND TUCKEY BEATEN

Paris, May 25. A sensation was caused in the semi-final round of the French Doubles Lawn Tennis championship at Auteuil to-day by the defeat of Fred Perry and C. R. D. Tuckey, who were eliminated by Vivian McGrath and D. P. Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup players, by 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4. Reuter.

TENNIS

To-day's Matches

Tennis fans will be given a treat to-day when Kowloon Cricket Club meet the Chinese Recreation Club in the Mixed Doubles League at Causeway Bay. The game should be a very evenly contested one and on paper the Kowloonites stand a better chance of winning—I think they will, by five sets to four—as they have three well-balanced pairs while the Chinese are practically a new team, and it is this combination (or is it lack of combination?) there I fear will let them down. In any case it will be a close game and those who will make the trip to Causeway Bay will probably find that it would be worth the trouble going all that distance to see these two sides in action.

KOWLOON SECOND STRING
The Kowloon No. 2 team will be at home to the United Services Recreation Club but they are a very weak team and will do well to annex even a set against the much improved U.S.R.C. six.

I have not been able to get the C.R.C. team but the three other teams will be as follows:—
K.C.C. I.—E. C. Fincher and Miss O. Dalziel; F. P. Fincher and Miss M. Griffith; A. E. Guest and Miss A. Mackenzie.

K.C.C. II.—A. W. Ramsey and Mrs. Horford; C. E. Watson and Mrs. Whyte; H. L. Oppenheim and Mrs. Knight.
U.S.R.C.—L. Goldman and Miss R. Hancock; Major Withington and Mrs. Rice Evans or Mrs. Grimble; Capt. Moon and Mrs. Kyall.

DUNLOP "FORT" TENNIS BALL

Hong Kong tennis enthusiasts have always been regarded a very fortunate lot in that they have all the facilities they want for this extremely popular game. Always there is some firm ready to cater for the needs of even the most fastidious player and it is a well-known fact that some players are very particular about the type of ball they use. Quite rightly too, or although some may hold that the racket makes all the difference to one's games, it is not generally realised how much even the best player can be put off by balls that are not properly turned out—balls that are difficult to control. There are some makes that "lose the shine" (to borrow a cricket term) after a set or two and there are also many other complaints, but all this now fades into the background as a thing of the past with the arrival of the new Dunlop Fort Tennis Balls.

I had a tin given me on Saturday morning and all anxious to try them out, I had a game with them the same afternoon (despite the fact that it was raining intermittently and the court was rather wet) and I am glad to be able to say that they are different to anything I have used previously. The deep, untrimmed nap surface of the Dunlop cover was no doubt responsible for the fact that after many sets, on a wet court, the ball retained its "bounce" (a very important feature) and in the end they were just as serviceable as when I first played with them.

I have not the slightest hesitation in recommending the New Dunlop Fort Tennis Balls and because of their excellent quality, I am sure these new balls will at once gain favour with local tennis fans, who yet once again are fortunate in that the balls should be available so early in the season. With the Dunlop Fort, a very enjoyable and successful season is predicted for all.—F. M. A.

Racing In The Rain At Areia Preta

Lady Jockey Returns Highest Dividend

BIG CASH SWEEP PRIZE: MILE AND QUARTER RECORD LOWERED

Poor attendance, which might have been due to the threatening weather, marred the Spring Meeting of the Macao Jockey Club held yesterday at Areia Preta.

The heavy downpour of rain earlier in the afternoon dampened the spirit of race goers and jockeys alike but it was not enough to prevent Mr. Hem's Bayardo to win by a short head from Daylight Eve in the Sui Tai Handicap and, incidentally, creating a new record for that distance (1 1/4 miles) by lowering Mr. K. H. Kay's Ajax's record of May 8, 1932 by 1.7 of a sec.

Donald Black was the most successful jockey, finishing the day with three firsts. Dividends on the whole were moderate and it was left to Miss Torbett on Partnership in the last race to return the highest dividend of the day—$63.20.

Cash Sweep figures were low due no doubt to the poor attendance. The special $5 sweep for the Chairman's Cup was drawn and the first prize of $48,200 is believed to have been drawn by somebody in Japan.

Donald Black Rides Three Winners

TAI SHAN HANDICAP (SECOND SECTION)

Seven starters went to the starting post in a continual drizzle and a strong wind blowing. A good send off with Fudge immediately in front. It looked an easy thing for this pony with Sarabande slowly coming up from the fourth position. Partnership and Bold Captain following at one and a half length behind.

On the stretch, Fudge was never extended and romped home four lengths ahead of Sarabande with two lengths separating the latter and Bold Captain.

SUI TAI HANDICAP

Four ponies faced the starter from the start. Daylight Eve and Bistre were in front with Bayardo and Cavalcade in the rear. When the post was reached Daylight Eve came to the front with one length separating each of the other ponies. At the 1/2 mile post Cavalcade made a dash and the last three ponies were bunched together with Daylight Eve a length in front. At the stretch Bistre and Cavalcade were out of the running and a keen tussle for honours was seen between Bayardo and Daylight Eve. The favourite finally won by a short head to break the record for the distance by 1.7 sec.

SUI AN HANDICAP

The weather had improved by the time this race was due to start. There were seven starters with Backsmith taking the lead followed closely by Locksley Hall, Flamingo and Bold Major. At the half mile post Beginner's Luck went up with Locksley Hall and Bold Major running strongly after him. At the stretch Bold Major made a bold bid but was strongly challenged by Beginner's Luck with Flamingo a close third.

Beginner's Luck eventually won by a short head from Bold Major a length separating the second and Flamingo.

THE CHAIRMAN'S CUP

A good start was seen in this race with Boxer Eve leading the field. What A Chance and Double Chance following respectively a length and 2 lengths behind. The same positions were maintained practically throughout the course. Great Hall which was fourth in the wake shot up at the stretch and was strongly challenged by What A Chance. Boxer Eve won with a length to spare with a short head between Great Hall and What A Chance.

KIN SHAN HANDICAP

Plain View was left behind at the start with Tammany Hall in the lead followed closely by Twenty Grand and Soldier of Peace. The same positions remained until the half mile post when Soldier of Peace came forward with Twenty Grand still second. Round the quarter mile post Twenty Grand came strongly forward closely pursued by Soldier of Peace. Diogenes which at one time was running strongly dropped back and Plain View gradually came forward. A great struggle was seen between Twenty Grand and Soldier of Peace, the former just managing to finish first. Plain View was a poor third, about three lengths behind.

TAI SHAN HANDICAP

Mike was about a length behind at the start with Limelight a length ahead of Gold Currency and Gold Bullion. The same positions were maintained until the corner past the half mile post when Chivalrous gradually forged ahead.

Warrington came up steadily when the 1/2 mile post was reached. Limelight Chivalrous, and Warrington came in for a great race and Donald Black rode a well judged race to beat Warrington by a short head. Limelight was half a length behind.

LADIES SPRINT (UNOFFICIAL)
The Ladies Sprint brought the afternoon's races to a close after a very unimpressive start. Five starters went to the post. Bold Captain was ahead with Ebony Idol and Sarabande in the rear. At the stretch a great struggle developed between Partnership and Bold Captain. Partnership came up from third place. Miss Torbett pleased her supporters by paying $63.20 for a win. It was, incidentally, the highest dividend for the day.

THE V. R. C.

First Swimming Gala

The opening swimming gala of the Victoria Recreation Club will take place on Saturday, June 15.

A very interesting and varied programme of events is being drawn up and a record entry is anticipated.

Heats will probably be held during the week in order that the programme will be completed on the final night without undue delay.

There will be dancing, as usual, after the swimming, while another night fete has been provisionally fixed for Saturday July 13.

NIGHT BASEBALL

New York, May 26.

Cincinnati Reds beat Philadelphia Phillies by a 2 to 1 margin in the first night baseball game played in America.

A crowd of 25,000 witnessed the most successful experiment, while President Roosevelt switched on the lights from Washington.

JESSE OWENS, THE WONDER MAN

Michigan, May 25.

Jesse Owens, the Ohio State University's negro crack athlete, established a new world's record for the long jump with a leap of 26 feet 8 1/2 inches, the previous record being 26 feet 2 1/2 inches set up by Chuhei Nambu in Tokio in 1931.

Earlier in the day Owens equalled Wykoff's record of 9.4 seconds for the 100 yards.

Not satisfied with these two achievements, however, Owens went on to create a sensation by setting up two more new records. First of all he sent his supporters mad with delight by finishing the 220 yards in 20.3 seconds against the previous world record of 20.8 seconds set up by Roland Locke, Nebraska, in 1926 and hardly had the thrill worn off than he finished the 220 yards low hurdles in 22.6 seconds, thus setting up three world records in a day.

Owens was not allowed to walk off the track after the hurdles event. He was mobbed by his fellow students who carried him shoulder high while the Ohio State University's war cry echoed and re-echoed all over the field.

FOOTBALL TOURS

The Eastern Athletic Association's soccer team, who were supposed to have left for Shanghai during the middle of this month, will now probably leave during the second week in June.

Several players from other First Division football clubs have been invited to make the trip with the Eastern team.

ST. JOSEPH'S TEAM

The St. Joseph's Football Club may visit Canton during the next weekend holidays to play soccer there if the weather permits. The team will leave on Saturday, June 1, by the noon train, and return on Monday by the night boat.

quantities are very small. There are no sales reported of Japanese Woolens. Wool prices continue to be firmer, but the advances are not yet reflected in the price of piece goods.

H. K. STOCK EXCHANGE

Besides the Exchange factor, there can be little doubt that the recent heavy drop in the share values was to a great extent the result of the manipulations of the "bears." Business to-day was on a restricted scale but Hotels are reported to have been done at $4 and more are wanted. There are also enquiries for several public utilities at quotations, but shares are scarce.

THE EXCHANGE MARKET

MESSRS. ROZA BROS.

Silver prices dropped 1/16 on Friday for both deliveries, the quotations being 34 1/2 for Ready and 34 1/4 for Forward. London advised sales for account of China, India and speculators bought. The tone at the close was steady with business done at 5/16 over the quoted rates.

In America the rate was unchanged at 78 1/2 for Spot. The New York/London cross-rate opened at 49 1/2 and closed substantially higher at 49 1/4.

Opened uncertain but subsequently firmed up particularly in U.S. Dollars. Later the market eased off slightly but at the lower level the tone was steady.

Sterling

There were sellers after the opening at 2/5 7/16, buyers bidding 2/5 9/16 resulting in business subsequently at 2/5 1/4 for May and June. Later the market steadied up slightly and offers at 2/5 7/16 were accepted for May and June and 2/5 1/4 was also arranged for July delivery. 2/5 9/16 was also done for August delivery. The market closed with sellers at 2/5 1/4 May/June and 2/5 7/16 July, buyers at 2/5 7/16 May/June and 2/5 1/4 July.

U.S. Dollars

The market was brisk. There were sellers after the opening at 60 1/2, buyers bidding 60 1/4. Business was soon arranged at 60 1/4 for June, 60 1/2 for June, 61 July, 61 for June and 61 1/4 for August. The market then eased off and transactions were arranged at 60 1/2 for cash, finishing with sellers at 60 1/2 May/June and 60 1/4 July, buyers at 60 1/2 May/June and 61 for July.

Shanghai Dollars

Sellers were quoted at 144 1/2 for cash.

BANK BRANCH OPENED

A large gathering, including the Colony's leading bank officials and brokers attended the opening ceremony of the local branch of the Banque Belge pour l'Etranger, S.A. at 4A, Des Voeux Road at 12.15 p.m. on Saturday. A reception was held when Mr. M. Maurice Pirene, the manager received the guests.

The Banque Belge pour l'Etranger is a daughter company of the Societe Generale de Belgique, the oldest bank in Belgium. The first branch in the Far East was opened in Shanghai in 1902 followed by Tientsin in 1906 and Hankow in 1921. The Banque Belge pour l'Etranger financed the construction of both the Peking-Hankow and the Lanchow-Hankow

THE SHARE MARKET

Harriman's Weekly Review

25th May, 1935.

Messrs. G. A. Harriman & Co.'s weekly share report and market review issued at noon on Saturday states:—

The market during the week under review continued its downward trend and prices in some instances sagged to new low levels, the volume of trading being moderate. The main feature of the week was the sharp drop in Hong Kong Trams and Hong Kong Electric, the former being on offer at $11.75 and the latter having been done down to $55 1/2. Hong Kong Lands registered a further decline with sales effected at $30/31, closing in demand at $28. Star Ferries could be obtained at $77 without attracting buyers. Dairy Farms dropped sharply to a selling rate of $13. Telephones (old) declined from $19 to $18 1/2, closing with buyers at the latter rate. Minor issues were again easier. Hotels were put through at $4, closing in demand at $3.90. China Lights changed hands at declining rates from $2.25 to $1.90. Cements (converted) were offering at $5.80 without any response. Providents (old) were dealt in at 75 cents. In the Sterling section, Hong Kong Banks again came to business at $995/1010, but Unions were a shade easier with sales effected at $335/40. The tone of the market at the close is dull.

Business during the week has been done at the following prices:—

H. K. Banks, $995/1010
Unions, $335/340
Rauhs, $4.00/41
Hotels, $4.
H. K. Lands, $30/31
Providents (old), 75 cents.
China Lights, $7.90/8.35
H. K. Electric, $55 1/2/55
Douglases, $38 1/2
H. K. Trams, $12/12 1/2
Yammat Ferries, $17
Telephones (old), $18 1/2/18 1/2
Cements (converted), $5.80
Watsons, $3.90

REICHSBANK RETURN

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages, Ordinance, 1891. Received, May 25, 7.30 p.m.)

Berlin, May 25.

The Reichsbank statement dated May 23 issued on Saturday reveals that the goldstock as well as the foreign currency reserves remained unaltered at a total of 88.3 millions. Note circulation declined by 88.5 millions to 341.8 millions. The amount of credit issued as shown by bills, cheques, investments and advances decreased 302.4 millions to 404.5 millions. This marks a notable relief which is mainly due to the issue of promissory notes by gold discount banks in order to offer the market gilt edged paper for short-term investments.

BERLIN BOURSE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, May 25.

A heavy tendency prevailed in the bourse on Saturday with the majority of the sections losing further ground. Potashes, however, continued the upward trend, news of the agreement reached between the German Potash Syndicate and the American potash industry having stimulating effect so that Salzdorfurth gained 1 1/2 points, Westeregeln 3 and Aschersleben 7 per cent. Other department showed losses up to 3 1/2 points, chiefly due to profit-selling.

The bond market was somewhat brighter but little actual business was done. Call Money 2 1/2 to 3.

The sharemarket showed considerable activity during the week, the bullish movement reaching its peak on Thursday. A reaction set in on Friday when speculation began to liquidate its profits so that many stocks dropped below the week's opening levels. Banks, especially the Reichsbank, however, were resistant with appreciable gains for the week. The Bond market remained quiet and well supported throughout.
